Theta Phi Alpha Offers Members New Career Resource

BAY VILLAGE, Ohio –Theta Phi Alpha is excited to offer members access to Scholars, a new career resource that connects students and recent graduates with internship opportunities and corporate contacts.

The Scholars internship database acts as a career resource that matches students with employers based on their skills, interests and experiences. The connections our members make will kick-start their professional network and strengthen their resumé to help find their dream job regardless of who they know or where they go to school.

All active Theta Phi members will be able to join this resource for free, create a profile, and match with top companies like Cardinal Health, PwC, Northwestern Mutual, and many more for internships and entry-level job opportunities. Members can also follow company pages and attend virtual webinars hosted by hiring managers at the participating companies.

“We recognize the value of real-world job experience through internships, and we’re very proud to offer this new benefit to our collegians and recent graduates as a way to help our members achieve their professional goals,” said Executive Director Kathryn Hartmann.

To get started, members are encouraged to visit the Theta Phi Alpha Scholars landing page to establish their applicant profile and begin to take advantage of the opportunity to engage with top companies virtually.

Founded in 1912, Theta Phi Alpha is a women’s organization whose mission is to provide close comradeship; to advance educational, social, and philanthropic interests and leadership training; to encourage spiritual development and adherence to the highest moral standards; and to promote lifelong bonds of friendship.
